The Laoniawan Yellow River Grand Canyon Tourist Area is it is located in the core area of the Shanxi-Mongolian Yellow River Grand Canyon and the hinterland of the Yellow River "J" bend. It is the place where the Yellow River and the Great Wall "shake hands" and is known as "the first bay of the Yellow River in the world", "one of the ten most beautiful canyons in China", and "the Little Three Gorges in the North". The Laoniawan Village, where the Attraction is located, was rated as a traditional Chinese ancient village in 2015.

Ordos Grassland Tourist Area it is a large grassland leisure holiday destination in central and western Inner Mongolia. It has grasslands, deserts and thousands of lakes. There are six distinct areas, including the Folk Culture Experience Area and Ecological Sightseeing Area. The core area is a group of yurts consisting of a Mongolian golden tent and a variety of other yurts. You can experience horseback riding, archery, Mongolian songs, Ordos weddings, authentic grassland food, and the original, simple folk customs deep in the grasslands.

Xiangshawan is located in the east of the Kubuqi Desert in Dalad Banner, Ordos. It's among the three best-known "singing-sand" destinations in China and the top ten tourist attractions in the region. Xiangshawan has a sea of sand that is 110m high and 400m wide. When "surfing" down a sand dune, one will hear the rumbling of sand. It may sound like the croaks of frogs, the roar of cars or planes, a sudden clap of thunder or even a passionate symphony. The sand sings in a neat and interesting way.

The Genghis Khan Tourist Area is situated in Bayinchanghuge prairie in Ejin Horo Banner, Ordos, covering an area of 10 square kilometers and a control area of 80 square kilometers. It is divided into 5 sections: the Historical Culture Section, the Sacrificial Culture Section, the Folk Culture Section, the Prairie Sightseeing Section, as well as the Entertainment Section. It is a tourist site that miniatures sacrificial culture, prairie nomad culture, Ordos folk customs, and Mongolian palace culture.

Mengliang National Customs Park has a number of projects including a research and development center, a national product display and sales center, and national specialty Dining. Through unique national art forms, it showcases the charm of national crafts, Mongolian food, and Mongolian cuisine, becoming an important platform for people to explore and understand the connotation of grassland culture.
